

The outline of this thesis consists of Islamic school of thought's approaches toward decision making and its status based on the dimensions of human existence and Imam Khomeini's way of decision making and its mechanism. The topics above are debated and studied in this thesis. In this regard, the Islamic school of thought and its characteristics are discussed in the beginning and then the relation of decision maker in decision making is taken into discussion and in the end the human spirit of a political person and the political phenomenon of industrialization and power in human beings are studied and analyzed.