

The Human rights through Imam Khomeini's viewpoint

Radaii, Mohammed Reza – 1388

Subject: Imam Khomeini, Thomas Springs, Islamic Rule, Political thinking, Political theory

Publisher: Imam Khomeini and Islamic Revolution Research centre

The essence

Realisation of the high status of human being and its value in political thoughts on one hand and same time regarding the wide spread of these new discourses on the topic of human rights and its international and local dimensions which have resulted in different effects and consequences like new mandates for governments on the other hand, makes taking of the subject of human rights through Imam's angle important in two aspects, first: need for making clear part of Imam's political science theory on government and its legal mandates especially on the international level [especially] regarding his theoretical bases on ontology and anthropology, on which no proper efforts yet been spent. Second: the topic of human rights is of international subjects that get included in daily discourses of human rights literature and it is one of the problem making topics which Iran face's with in her international relationship fields. So regarding the different viewpoint of Islamic Republic [on human rights] that emanates from Imam Khomeini's thoughts and the school of Islam paying attention to the subject of human rights as well as explaining Imam's approach to it following search and finding answers for questions as such can be helpful.

---