Abstract

In this thesis I have examined first the roots of Islam's human rights and also that group of human beings basic rights that have been noted in Islam's teachings and their impact cannot be seen in human rights global declarations and other related treaties. Then I have noted the existing comparative methods between human rights concepts and Islam's decrees and I have examined the cases about which there is a disagreement.

In that vein I have used the expressions and the guidance of the great leader of Iran's Islamic revolution Imam Khomeini. As a result I have divided the cases about which there is a disagreement into the following four main groups:

- ١- Cases that when they are examined there is not much practical use
- ٢- Cases that from a theoretical perspective disagreements can be removed easily
- ٣- Cases that given that there is disagreement it is possible to offer practical solution for the disagreement
- ٤- Cases that need more imagination and mutual understanding

Key words: Islam's human rights, global declarations and treaties, concepts and decrees, practical solution
