Abstract

This dissertation investigates "Concept of Government Expedience" from viewpoints of two great thinkers of the world, Imam Khomeini and Habbes in short and analytical way. As we know plenty thinkers in the world of today thought and spoke on the concept of expedience especially its use in government. First grade thinkers and philosophers like Aristotle, Machiavelli, Habbes and Russo in the west spoke about it. And in the Islamic world whenever it came to speak about politics and government right from the beginning, the time of Rashedin Kalifates until Islamic revolution in Iran many thinkers such as Maverdi, Ibnkhonji, Farabi, and Akhunde Khorasani, and Imam Khomeini did think and spoke about it. This study is done for the first time and no any other study of the type weather comparative or non, have ever been done, so this study could bear faults and flaws those are surely of the author especially of his short comings in knowing the two great thinkers. Lastly, the dissertation's been made of 4 chapters: 1st chapter is on general matters, explanations, terminology and literature of the text, and chapters 2 and 3 are on investigating western thinkers and Muslims with focusing on Habbes and Imam Khomeini, and the last chapter that is the 4th presents the conclusion of the text and reads on differences and similarities of the two thinkers' ideas about the concept of expedience.
