

Human behavior from Imam Khomeini's viewpoint

Writer or Author: Taiebeh Mottaharee

Submitted to: Imam Khomeini and Islamic Revolution research center

Year: 2006

Abstract:

The subject of this research work: That is Imam Khomeini's getting to know human being's behavior.

The goal of this research work: the goal of this research work is to introduce the complete models of today's society in which the youths seek to have the latter and they do not know who should they obey and which direction should they follow and thus I sought to introduce an individual who has an existence that is more touchable and that can be more understood by them and the behaviors should be mentioned and they should create the ground for imitation and having the model concerning them and that may create enthusiasm in them.

Regarding that complete model, i.e. Imam Khomeini to some extent in researches and the books that have been printed before some of his behaviors and morals have been examined but they have to do with the memories and they are very little and most of those books are one-dimensional and they have discussed one dimension of Imam's morals but in this research work an effort has been made to examine all of Imam's individual, social and political life in summary and to show some of the behaviors of the people and those are more common as a model and an action that are right.

This research work noting the kind of the goal is of a development kind and its subject is of a moral kind. The activity that has been carried out concerning the trend of the research is of a library kind and that through writing on the slips concerning the documents and credible documents and those that are in the libraries will be described and that will have three chapters.

In the first chapter: the individual features and those mean the worshiping and family ones of Imam is in mind; and in the individual segment I examine Imam's order, his fine attitude, his exercising, his hygiene, his bravery and him being an artist and also his moral features such as him seeking god and having Him as the axis for himself, accepting what is right, him explaining what is at the top, him having trust and being quiet and him relying on God.

The second chapter examines the social-political features of Imam such as paying attention to imam's political life since he was a child until he became a leader and introducing him as the greatest savor of the participation in the positive politics and also expressing Imam's bravery and him being definite vis-a-vis the foreigners and the enemies. In the social part Imam's management manifestations, his knowing the people and him being a populist and his methods of meeting the ones who are great, the scientists and those who opposed him... are in mind.

In the third chapter I explain briefly the model and the complete model and also the features of that and the kinds of making the model and the importance and the influential factors concerning the role models and the criteria of getting to know the positive and negative ones. Once I have added up the issues what can be understood are what follows:

The most definite and the most important influential factors concerning the model's personality are determination and free will. On one hand the passing of historical times has proven that the choosing the model and the role model plays a very important role regarding human being's personality and the progress of the civilization and that should not be disregarded since the desired and the stark role models are the factors that move the human beings toward perfection and being great and Imam as the innocent likeness is the best model of the present age for all of the people who want to pave the path of perfection.

Key words: Imam Khomeini, political behavior, character sketch