

Forqan Srct and the Islamic Revolution

Salehi, Hajar – 1389

Publisher: Imam Khomeini and Islamic Revolution Research centre

The essence

After triumphant of the Islamic Revolution of Iran some sects and groups attempted to oppose the Revolution and the Islamic Republic. Of these groups there were some religious ones those opposed or even antagonised the Islamic Republic. One of these sects was Forqan under leadership of a guy by the name of Akbar Gudarzi.

This group was a clear opposition of clerics and to the extent of killing them physically. Gudarzi in consequence of some failures experienced in Howza [religious school of Qum] built the group by the year of 1356. The group of Forqan that almost same time with the incremental growth of the new religious generation and also affected by the political – religious streams of the time was formed and succeeded to attract some people. They would believe that some numbers made the triangle of, rich, power and hypocrisy and misdirected people's true revolution – and with such a belief – took gun and began assassination of people such as General Qarani, and some spiritual and revolution leaders like Mofatteh, Motahari, Mehdi Iraqi and Qazi Tabataaai. This essay is up to investigate emergence and formation, of Forqhn as well as ideas, performance, thoughts and position of Imam Khomeini against them.
