

Iranian-Islamic role model of progress from viewpoint of Imam Khomeini

By Mehdi Afkhami Ardakani

Presented at Yazd University

Dated: 1390 AH

Abstract:

This research work seeks to answer the following question: what is the model of political development of Imam Khomeini (peace be upon him)? The hypothesis of the writing is that his excellency Imam (peace be upon him) seeks to express the model of magnificent political development vis-a-vis the model of the worldly Western political development. According to him the end aim of political development is not only enjoyment and being worldly; in fact the main aim of development has been tied to the aim of human beings life and that is the coming true of unity school of thought. The Western model seeks to establish political development that is worldly, eliminating tradition religion and the coming true of development that at its axis are human beings and it rejects having at its axis God and it has secular particularities. However, Imam Khomeini (peace be upon him) seeks to make come true magnificent political development regarding political system and at its axis is God and on the top of the aims of political development is to make come true a Godly school of thought and he puts forward unity theory. Regarding his view of indicators, how he uses them and the place of each of them within the process of political development his excellency (peace be upon him) has inventions and that distinguishes his model of political development from other ones.